Walton's Beauty — Everyone's Duty

This Is Welfare!

by
M. GENE SNYDER
 U. S. Congressman
 4th District, Kentucky

The following story came to my attention in Washington recently. It comes from an exchange of letters which appeared in a Pennsylvania newspaper. I pass it on to you as one more example of the urgent need for realistic welfare reform.

The first letter was from an outraged taxpayer relating the cast of a full-time factory worker in Lancaster, Pa., with a wife and seven children who lived in public housing, drew food stamps, and a welfare check of more than $200 a month. The worker had purchased a new station wagon at a cost of approximately $5,000.

Two days later, in the same newspaper's "letters to the editor" column appeared a letter which said in effect, "I am the guy the taxpayer is talking about. Yes, I use those welfare checks to make the payments on my car, and I'll collect all the welfare money I can get because my earning capacity is below my living standards." He ended by telling the taxpayer to "take a walk."

Six days after the first letter to the editor an unpaid, volunteer member of the Lancaster County Board of Assistance, since 1963, resigned because he said the board was powerless to curtail welfare abuses.

This volunteer told of the case of another Lancaster full-time worker whose pay check was $480 a month. In addition, he received a veterans allowance of $195 and a welfare check for $280 for a total of $955 per month.

He also noted a person can move to Lancaster from anywhere else and on the day of arrival get an emergency assistance grant for two weeks—without an investigation or anything else.

You can see why there are a lot of taxpayers across the country who are completely frustrated to the point of rebellion against these and other rank abuses of the assorted welfare programs.

COUNTY AGENT'S 1/2 ACRE

Recent snows and rains have kept fields soft and damp, thus delaying the application of fertilizer for the coming growing season. This delay in fertilizing may force the state's farmers into a bind. If too many farmers postpone fertilizer deliveries until it is planting time, a critical supply problem could develop.

Transportation and storage facilities available to the fertilizer industry will not permit dealers to handle in a week or ten days the large volume of orders usually placed in a 30-40 day period.

If farmers continue to postpone ordering, some may find it necessary to delay planting or put crops in without adequate fertilization. In any case, both yield and net returns will be reduced.

The bind can be avoided if farmers will place orders and accept deliveries as far ahead of planting time as possible. If this doesn't happen, some farmers may not get the fertilizer when they want and need it. Have soil tested for greater crop yields and net returns. Bring soil samples to the Extension Office.

Each year, according to highway authorities, more than $50,000 has to be spent in the United States to keep trash off the shoulders of the primary highways which has been thrown there by litterbugs who continue to treat the countryside as a garbage dump. Also, each year, these same authorities say, hundreds of motorists are killed and thousands seriously injured in swerving their cars to avoid objects thrown on the highways. With this being so, a litterbug could also be a lifesaver.

The litter problem in America has reached the proportions of a national disgrace and is a direct result of the thoughtlessness of millions of individuals. It will be eliminated only when these careless habits are changed and when everyone becomes concerned enough to carry a litterbag in his car, and use it.

A litterbag is a simple and inexpensive device, but rightly and religiously used, it could have a profound effect upon the appearance of this nation.

The litterbag has a cosmetic effect by helping prevent blotches on the beautiful face of America.

Two secretaries were discussing their troubles. "All I asked him," said one, "was if he wanted the carbon copies double spaced too and he blew his top."
